Modern Assistance Announces New Ownership Structure

Company deepens leadership's direct role in client care as four Partners take a personal stake in its future

QUINCY, Mass., September 14, 2026. Modern Assistance is a leading provider of Employee Assistance Program services to organized labor, municipalities, and private employers across the United States. Whether it's a national Taft-Hartley Fund or a local association, Modern Assistance's new ownership structure reflects one core belief: leadership should stay directly connected to the people it serves.

Effective immediately, Michael Gamsby (Executive Director), Shaun Gavin (Chief Clinical Officer), and Nick Scott (Chief Operations Officer) have joined John Christian (President and CEO) as Partners of Modern Assistance. Christian will serve as Managing Partner.

As Modern Assistance has grown, the four Partners have taken on a direct stake in the company, reflecting their ongoing role in delivering care and running day to day operations for clients. All four remain actively involved in the care and support provided across the organization's full client base.

"Our ownership structure reflects who we are as a company. The people leading Modern Assistance should be directly connected to the people we serve. Michael, Shaun, Nick, and I are all personally involved in delivering care, supporting our clients, and making sure working people and their families get real help when they need it most." John Christian,
President and CEO, Modern Assistance

This partnership reinforces the company's mission of providing accessible, responsive, and clinically focused support to members and their families. Modern Assistance's approach centers on meeting people at the point of need, working closely with the Funds, municipalities, and organizations it serves to protect the health and well-being of their members.

As Modern Assistance continues to expand its partnerships across the country, the four Partners will stay directly engaged in the company's clinical, operational, and client service work.
